A. L. REBELS STILL IN FIGHTING MOOD

ousted From Board of Directors, They Continue After Johnson's Scalp.

BY DENMAN THOMPSON.

NEW YORK, December 11.—Ignominious failure rewarded the efforts of the American League insurgents to oust Ban Johnson from the presidency at the annual meeting of the organization here yesterday. Just as was outlined in these columns, the net result of a busy and turbulent day was the election of a new board of directors from among the club owners supporting Johnson and the anathorizing of Charles Comiskey, who was voted out of the vice presidency. Frank Navin of Detroit being named to fill the office for years held by Johnson's arch enemy.

Although balked at every turn in their attempt to scalp Johnson, the rebels are not discouraged. They are going to keep a-trying, as evidenced in the three additional legal actions instituted against Johnson and his supporters yesterday. The exact nature of these new suits was not disclosed, but one is said to charge conspiracy in the Mays case, another has to do with a contract Johnson entered into with the Western Union Telegraph Company, and the other is an ouster proceeding, by which it will be attempted to remove Johnson from the presidency.

The two meetings yesterday—that of the board of directors and the annual session of the league itself—proved the most tempestuous in the history of the organization, and remarkably exceeded in storminess any meeting of the hitherto turbulent National League, which this year was calm and uneventful.

Summed up, the outcome was that the board of directors and the annual session of the league itself—proved the most tempestuous in the history of the organization, and remarkably exceeded in storminess any meeting of the hitherto turbulent National League, which this year was calm and uneventful.

"Yes, it all can be fixed up in five minutes. All they have to do is to get together and remove this ban (Johnson) from base ball. And it might as well be done in five minutes, because if it isn't in five minutes, it will be done in five years. This fight is for a principle and for the protection of every property owner, and there can be no letup until the removal of this impediment in base ball."

The day of strife opened with the meeting of the directors, when the majority of the members pulled what was characterized by "bone" by attempting to put Comiskey in as chairman of the meeting in place of Johnson, named in the constitution as the proper person to preside. Johnson and Dunn walked out of the meeting when this was done. Realizing their error, the majority members of the board sent after Johnson to request him to return, with the assurance he would be placed in the chair, but Johnson could not be found, so the board went ahead with its meeting. It adopted resolutions condemning Johnson for his acts in the Mays case, condemning his course in assigning Umpire Hildebrand to "spy" on Manager Barrow of Boston during the Mays case and denouncing various other of his official acts.

One resolution was to the effect that, inasmuch as Johnson had broken the conditions of his employment with the league, he receive no further compensation, and that he be prevented from using the league's funds. Another was that, inasmuch as section 11 of the constitution requires the league to elect annually a president, secretary and treasurer (all three of whose positions are held by Johnson) the directors decline to recognize Johnson's authority, repudiate his claim to office and declare any alleged contract Johnson has with the league to be declared null and void, and that any action continuing or electing Johnson as an official of the league, or continuing compensation to him, would be detrimental to the interests of this league and the game of base ball.

Then came the league meeting, at which the main fireworks were set off and the first thing done was to severely pigeonhole the report of the directors, as was predicted would be done in these columns yesterday. Oratory then was in order and Johnson was subjected to a verbal barrage that could be heard out in the corridors. Comiskey and Ruppert being the leaders. Neither Johnson nor his supporters made any effort to reply to these attacks. They simply sat back and waited until the proper time, when they voted Frank Navin of Detroit into the office of vice president in place of Comiskey and elected President Minor of Washington, St. Paul and Navin of the Philadelphia, St. Louis and Detroit clubs, respectively, as directors in place of Comiskey, Ruppert, Frazee and Dunn.

Some hope for the restoration of peace in the circuit is seen in the fact that the insurgents yesterday got a chance to let off some of the pent-up steam in their systems. Having gotten their feelings off their chest, so to say, they may cool down and by the time Johnson calls the league into session again for an adjourned meeting early next month the rival factions may be able to get together and patch up their difficulties. This will not be done unless the rebels recede from their position of demanding Johnson's scalp, however. His backers are determined to keep him in power and unless the insurgents decide to like this condition they will be permitted to lump it.

An adjourned meeting of the league, in addition to the scheduled meeting, which always is held in February, will be necessary to transact the routine business of the league, for about the only thing accomplished along this line yesterday was the agreement to return to the 154-game schedule, starting April 14.

Manager Griffith faced a busy day today. He had an appointment with President Herrmann of the Red Sox to discuss a barnstorming trip with the world champions and Nationals during the training season next spring and with Manager Hughson of the Yankees and Barrow of the Red Sox to talk trade.

Bobby Roth from Boston or Duffy Lewis from New York. He has quite a lot of material to offer in exchange for either of these right-hand hitting outfielders, and although none too confident of success in negotiating for them, said he had hopes.

Connie Mack again has reiterated his intention never to sell or trade another ball player, which would seem to relegate any chance of his getting Shortstop Joe Dugan, but it is learned on good authority that Cy Perkins, his first string shortstop, will appear in other than a Philadelphia uniform next season, and this being the case perhaps Mack may yet be induced to make any look mighty good.

HARVARD GRIDDERS TO TAKE TRIP TO PASADENA

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., December 11.—The Harvard University foot ball team will play a western eleven at Pasadena, Calif., New Year day. The committee on athletics at Harvard today voted to recall its refusal of an invitation from the carnival of roses committee at Pasadena, in view of the improved coal situation. The Crimson eleven began practice yesterday.

OPHELIA, CRACK FILLY, VICTIM OF INFLUENZA

NEW YORK, December 11.—Ophelia, the three-year-old filly owned by Mrs. J. E. Davis, died at the Gravesend racetrack yesterday from influenza contracted en route to this city from Bowie last week. During the Bowie meeting Ophelia won five straight races in thirteen days. Ophelia was trained by "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, who has quite a few struts under his command, including the Quincy stable. Fitzsimmons noticed that the filly was ailing upon her arrival here and immediately called a veterinary. However, Ophelia never showed signs of improvement.

Bob Simpson has taken up his duties as coach of Missouri University students. He is in charge of the compulsory athletic work of the military department.

EASTERN COLLEGES TO PLAY VIRGINIA BASE BALL

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., December 11.—For the first time in three years large eastern colleges have accepted base ball games with the University of Virginia in the south. The base ball schedule for next season, as announced last night, includes games on the home field with Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Amherst, Lafayette and Bucknell. On the northern trip Virginia will play Princeton, Yale, Amherst and Harvard. Among southern teams listed in the schedule are the Universities of Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee and South Carolina.

UNCLE SAM ADVERTISING FOR BASE BALL PLAYERS

Down in the Panama Canal Zone there has been a base ball league for several years, composed of six Army teams and two civilian nines, and the Army has consistently carried off the honors in the past.

But now, since so many men have been discharged from the Army because of the end of hostilities, the garrisons in Panama find themselves sadly depleted in strength, that they greatly fear one of the lowly civilian teams will cop the pennant next year.

So a wall has gone up from the Canal Zone—a wall so long and loud that it has reached the ears of the adjutant general in Washington. The commanding officer at Corozal—the post which won the championship this year—in fact, wrote a letter of lament to that high official.

In it he recited how long and how hard the soldiers had labored to win their base ball laurels, and how, now they were in a fair way to lose them; and he said, not only had many of the best Army players been discharged, but they had actually gone over to the enemy, which was a disgrace to the Army.

The civilians pursued this practice particularly in the matter of pitching, he said.
